Madan Mohan Malaviya, the founder of the University invited Kaviraj Dharamdasji, a renowned physician to join the University in the section of Ayurveda. Due to his dedication, the dream of Pt. Madan Mohan Malaviya was fulfilled and in 1927, the College of Ayurveda in Banaras Hindu University was established. Kaviraj Dharamdasji was the founder principal of the Ayurvedic College. A new era of education in Ayurveda was started consisting of Six years AMS (Ayurvedacharya with Medicine and Surgery) course under the separate faculty of Medicine and Surgery.

The college was attached to the 100-beded, “Sir Sunderlal Hospital” and Graduates of Ayurveda started to get practical training in this hospital.
